Federal financial aid can be used to improve a grade of D or higher only once for a given course. If you retake a course to replace a D or higher for the second time and are receiving Federal financial aid, be sure to enroll in at least 12 additional credits to maintain full-time status.

Credit at other institutions
You may complete up to 12 credits of general electives at other schools with advance permission from the appropriate Department Chair and Dean's Office. The last 30 credits must be taken at Seton Hall.

You can see your requirements (audit) in PirateNet the same way your advisor sees them – email your advisor for a copy of the directions or find directions on the Anthropology Program Blackboard site.

* Subtract credits for courses currently being repeated.
Courses must be from the list approved by the College of Arts and Sciences; list is posted on Anthropology Program Blackboard site.
