

About Us

The Msgr. William Noé Field Archives & Special Collections Center serves as the repository for records created by, for and about Seton Hall University. The Center exists to identify, collect and preserve records of enduring value not only to Seton Hall University, but also to the Archdiocese of Newark and Catholic New Jersey. Through its professional and service-related activities, the Center aims to achieve the goal of advancing the educational and research mission of Seton Hall University and to promote inquiry regarding those who have built and sustained the institution from its founding to the present day.
