Criminal Investigation

Robert Glantz began his Internal Revenue Service career in 1991 as a Tax Fraud Investigative Aide with the Criminal Investigation Division. He was subsequently promoted to the Special Agent position in 1993. Criminal Investigation serves the American public by investigating potential criminal violations of the Internal Revenue Code and related financial crimes in a manner that fosters confidence in the tax system and compliance with the law. Special Agent Glantz is currently the Public Information Officer for IRS Criminal Investigation's, Newark Field Office. As the Public Information Officer, Special Agent Glantz is responsible for publicizing cases that are investigated by his co-workers in IRS-Criminal Investigation. In addition, Special Agent Glantz frequently speaks about IRS-Criminal Investigation to professional organizations as well as college and high school students. Prior to becoming the Public Information Officer, Special Agent Glantz spent 10 years specializing in public corruption investigations pertaining to tax matters and related financial crimes. Special Agent Glantz has also participated in a myriad of other tax fraud investigations, including those of unscrupulous tax return preparers, individuals who embezzled funds from their employers, as well as business owners skimming cash from their businesses.
